About IOMP

IOMP represents about 24,000 medical physicists worldwide and over 80 adhering national member organizations. The mission of IOMP is to advance medical physics practice worldwide by disseminating scientific and technical information, fostering the educational and professional development of medical physicists, and promoting the highest quality medical services for patients. For more information, please visit www.iomp.org

IOMP is a society of societies, an association of associations. Medical physics societies/associations of countries are encouraged to seek affiliation with IOMP and once affiliated and in good standing, all members of the national society are automatically members of IOMP. Thus you do not need to be individually seeking membership of IOMP.
