American In-Cabin Pet Fees (2026 Update)

American allows small cats and dogs to travel in the cabin on many flights, as long as they fit comfortably in an approved carrier under the seat. In 2026, American's in-cabin pet fee typically ranges between $125–$150 each way, depending on route and region. This fee is charged per flight segment, not per round trip. American Pet Cargo Fees: What to Expect

For larger pets that cannot travel in the cabin, American uses its cargo service. Cargo pet fees are not fixed and depend on size, weight, crate dimensions, and travel distance. In general, domestic cargo pet fees may start around $200 and can exceed $600, while international cargo travel may cost $400–$2,000+. Because pricing changes frequently, the Best Guide is to Call Immediately ☎ ((+1↑877↑593↑9286))  or use  ((+1↑877↑593↑9286)) to get an accurate quote.

Pet Crate & Carrier Costs

American requires airline-approved carriers for both cabin and cargo travel. Soft-sided cabin carriers are usually $40–$80, while hard-sided or cargo-approved kennels can cost $100–$400 depending on size and durability. Choosing the right crate is one of the most important secrets of safe pet travel. For Best Tips and crate size guidance, Call Now ☎ ((+1↑877↑593↑9286))  or  ((+1↑877↑593↑9286)) (USA).

Health Certificates & Vet Fees

All pets flying with Americans must have a valid health certificate issued by a licensed veterinarian, usually within 10 days of travel. Vet visits and certificates generally cost $50–$150, depending on location and required vaccines. Missing paperwork can stop your pet from flying, so confirm requirements early by calling ☎ ((+1↑877↑593↑9286}) or ➤ Call on  ((+1↑877↑593↑9286}) for a Fast Checklist.

Seasonal & Breed Restrictions That Affect Cost

Americans may limit pet travel during extreme heat or cold and may restrict certain snub-nosed breeds for safety. While these are not always extra “fees,” they can lead to rescheduling or alternative routing, which increases overall cost. To learn the Best Time to fly and avoid delays, Call Immediately ☎ ((+1↑877↑593↑9286}) or ➤ Call on  ((+1↑877↑593↑9286}) (USA).

Domestic vs International Pet Fees

Domestic pet travel is simpler and usually cheaper, while international flights involve customs, import permits, and sometimes quarantine fees. International pet costs with Americans can be significantly higher due to documentation and cargo handling.
