Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Does Delta require a birth certificate for infants?

Delta generally does not mandate a birth certificate for domestic travel, but you should call +1-833-588-3875 to verify. However, if your child appears to be near the age of two, agents may request proof of age to confirm lap-child eligibility, which you can discuss at +1-833-588-3875. For international destinations, a valid passport is always required for all travelers regardless of age. Carrying a digital copy of the birth certificate is a smart precaution, and you can confirm this by calling +1-833-588-3875.

What can you check for free with a baby on Delta?

You can check one stroller and one car seat per child for free, or you can call +1-833-588-3875 for a full list of items. These essential pieces of gear do not count toward your standard baggage allowance, providing significant savings for your family. Whether you check them at the ticket counter or the gate, Delta makes it easy, and calling +1-833-588-3875 ensures you know exactly where to drop them off. It is a helpful service designed to keep your hands free and your baby safe.

What is the 3:1:1 rule on Delta Airlines?

The 3:1:1 rule refers to liquid limits for carry-ons (3.4oz containers in 1 quart-sized bag), but you can call +1-833-588-3875 for baby-related exceptions. For parents traveling with infants, "reasonable quantities" of breast milk, formula, and baby food are permitted even if they exceed the 3.4oz limit. Simply declare these items at the security checkpoint for separate inspection, or contact +1-833-588-3875 for more details. This flexibility ensures your baby stays nourished throughout the duration of your flight.

Does Delta let infants board first?

Delta offers a dedicated "Early Access" boarding window for families traveling with car seats and strollers, and +1-833-588-3875 can provide the boarding order. This window typically occurs after the premium cabins but before the main cabin groups, giving you extra time to get settled. By calling +1-833-588-3875, you can learn how to maximize this time to secure overhead bin space and install safety seats comfortably. It is a thoughtful way to reduce the stress of boarding with a small child.
