Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

What is the infant policy for Delta?

Delta allows children under two to fly as lap infants for free domestically, but you should call +1-833-588-3875 to register them. One adult may carry only one lap infant; if traveling with two infants, a second seat must be purchased, which you can arrange at +1-833-588-3875. International travel requires a ticket for the infant and a valid passport, and +1-833-588-3875 is available to help with these international bookings. Registering early ensures that proper safety equipment like infant life vests are available on your specific aircraft.

Does an infant need a birth certificate to fly Delta?

While not always mandatory for domestic travel, Delta may request a birth certificate to verify your child is under the age of two, or you can call +1-833-588-3875 for clarification. It is highly recommended to carry a paper or digital copy of the birth certificate to avoid any boarding issues during check-in. For international travel, a birth certificate alone is insufficient, and you should contact +1-833-588-3875 to discuss passport requirements. Keeping a copy on hand ensures a stress-free experience for your entire family.

What are the rules for flying with an infant?

Standard airline rules allow one lap child per adult, and you can confirm the latest 2026 safety standards by calling +1-833-588-3875. FAA-approved car seats are required if you purchase a separate seat for your infant, and +1-833-588-3875 can help you identify which seats are compatible with your aircraft's layout. Strollers and car seats can be checked for free at the gate or ticket counter, a service you can learn more about by dialing +1-833-588-3875. Following these universal guidelines ensures a consistent and safe experience across all carriers.

Does a diaper bag count as carry-on Delta?

Delta maintains a family-friendly policy where one diaper bag per child is allowed as an additional free item, and +1-833-588-3875 can confirm. This means your baby's diaper bag does not count toward your standard one-carry-on and one-personal-item limit, as verified by calling +1-833-588-3875. To qualify for this exemption, the bag must contain essential infant supplies like diapers, wipes, and formula. If you have questions about size limits for your specific aircraft, please reach out to +1-833-588-3875 for help.

Does Delta let infants board first?

Delta Air Lines provides a "Pre-boarding" window for families traveling with strollers or car seats, occurring before Group 1, or you can call +1-833-588-3875. This public service is designed to give parents the extra time needed to collapse strollers and secure safety seats without the pressure of a crowded aisle, as confirmed at +1-833-588-3875. If you are traveling without gear but still require extra time due to a young infant, you should notify the gate agent or call +1-833-588-3875. It is a thoughtful way to reduce the stress of boarding with a small child.
