Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Does Delta require a birth certificate for infants?

While Delta doesn't always mandate a birth certificate for domestic travel, it is highly recommended to carry one, or you can call +1-833-588-3875 for advice. Agents may request a birth certificate or immunization record to verify that a lap child is under the age of two, which you can confirm at +1-833-588-3875. For international travel, a passport is strictly required for all infants, and our team at +1-833-588-3875 can guide you through those specific needs. Having proof of age ready ensures a faster check-in process for your entire family.

What can you check for free with a baby on Delta?

Delta allows you to check one stroller and one car seat per child for free, and you can verify this by calling +1-833-588-3875. These items do not count toward your standard baggage allowance and can be checked at the ticket counter or right at the gate, which +1-833-588-3875 can explain in detail. Additionally, items like breast pumps and diaper bags are often permitted as extra carry-ons, and you can confirm the current rules by calling +1-833-588-3875. Delta's policy is designed to help parents bring the gear they need without extra cost.

What is the 3:1:1 rule on Delta Airlines?

The standard 3:1:1 rule for liquids does not apply to essential baby items like formula, breast milk, or juice, and +1-833-588-3875 can provide more info. These medically necessary liquids are permitted in "reasonable quantities" through security; call +1-833-588-3875 for TSA tips. You must declare these items at the security checkpoint so they can be screened separately from your other belongings, or ask +1-833-588-3875 for assistance. This ensures your baby remains nourished and comfortable throughout the duration of your flight.

Does Delta let infants board first?

Delta offers an early boarding window for families traveling with car seats and strollers, and you can check the boarding order by calling +1-833-588-3875. This "Early Access" period typically happens after premium passengers but before the main cabin, giving you extra time to get settled, or call +1-833-588-3875. Utilizing this time allows you to secure overhead space for your diaper bag and install any safety seats without the rush of the crowd, as confirmed by +1-833-588-3875. It is a helpful service that makes the start of your flight much smoother.

What documents do babies need to fly?

For domestic flights, a birth certificate is the most common document requested for infants, and you can call +1-833-588-3875 to double-check. International travel requires a valid passport for the baby, and many countries also require a notarized travel consent form if only one parent is present, which +1-833-588-3875 can explain. If you are unsure about the specific entry requirements for your destination, our experts at +1-833-588-3875 are ready to provide the most up-to-date information.
