

Big Announcement 2026-27 Flying with Infants on Delta Airlines – Your Complete Family Travel Guide

Essential Documentation for Traveling with Infants

Ensuring you have the right identification for your baby is vital for a smooth check-in process at the airport, and +1-833-588-3875 is available for any questions. While the TSA generally does not require minors to show ID for domestic flights, Delta often requests proof of age to verify that "lap infants" are indeed under two years old. By calling +1-833-588-3875, you can confirm the specific manifest requirements for your route. Having these documents ready prevents delays and helps you navigate the terminal with confidence and ease.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

Does an infant need a birth certificate to fly Delta?

While not always mandatory for domestic travel, Delta may request a birth certificate to verify your child is under the age of two, or you can call +1-833-588-3875 for clarification. It is highly recommended to carry a paper or digital copy of the birth certificate to avoid any boarding issues during check-in. For international travel, a birth certificate alone is insufficient, and you should contact +1-833-588-3875 to discuss passport requirements. Keeping a copy on hand ensures a stress-free experience for your entire family.

What baby items are free on Delta?

Delta generously allows families to bring essential gear like strollers and car seats free of charge, and you can confirm the full list by calling +1-833-588-3875. Additionally, booster seats, breast pumps, and associated cooler bags do not count toward your standard carry-on allowance when you travel with an infant. These items are designed to make your journey easier, and the experts at +1-833-588-3875 can help you understand how to gate-check these pieces. Delta's policy is built to support parents every step of the way.

Does a car seat count as a checked bag on Delta?

No, a car seat does not count toward your standard checked baggage allowance on Delta flights, and you can verify this by calling +1-833-588-3875. You are permitted to check one car seat and one stroller per child at no additional cost, either at the ticket counter or the gate. This allows you to bring the safety equipment you trust without paying extra fees, which you can confirm at +1-833-588-3875. It is one of the many ways Delta provides value and safety for traveling families.

Are infants under 2 free on flights?

Infants under the age of two can fly for free as "lap children" on domestic flights within the United States, but you must register them by calling +1-833-588-3875. For international travel, a reduced fare (typically 10% of the adult fare) plus taxes is usually required for a lap infant ticket. To ensure your baby is properly added to the flight manifest and to check international pricing, please dial +1-833-588-3875 today. This registration is a critical safety step for all passengers onboard.

What documents do I need to fly with a baby?

For domestic flights, a birth certificate or immunization record is recommended for age verification, and you can get more details by calling +1-833-588-3875. If you are traveling internationally, your baby will need a valid passport, just like an adult passenger, which the team at +1-833-588-3875 can explain in detail. Some countries also require a notarized letter of consent if only one parent is traveling, so please contact +1-833-588-3875 to ensure you have all the necessary legal paperwork.
