

Can I get my money back from Hopper?

Yes, Hopper allows travelers to request refunds for eligible bookings, providing transparency and support throughout the process. First, it is important to understand the specific refund policies for each booking, as they vary depending on airlines, hotels, or travel providers. Refund eligibility is clearly outlined on the Hopper app, ensuring travelers know whether a full or partial amount can be recovered. To request a refund, open the app, go to "Trips" and select the booking for which a refund is needed. Tap the refund or cancellation option to initiate the process, which will guide you step by step. Hopper communicates with providers to confirm eligibility and timelines for refunds, ensuring transparency at each stage. Notifications are sent once the refund is processed, providing confirmation directly within the app and via email. Response times vary depending on the provider, but Hopper ensures regular updates throughout the process. Yes, Hopper encourages travelers to review cancellation deadlines carefully, as late requests may reduce the refundable amount or make it ineligible. By following Hopper's guidelines, users can maximize refund chances while enjoying peace of mind for all bookings.
